DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS

CERTIFICATE COUESE 2017-2018

Valedictory report on "Stochastic Processes and Queuing Theory"

The aim of Stochastic Processes and Queuing Theory is to provide students with basic knowledge of stochastic models with a special focus on queueing models, that may apply to telecommunications topics, such as traffic modelling, performance evaluation, resource provisioning and traffic management. These topics are included in a field called teletraffic. This book assumes prior knowledge of a programming language and mathematics normally taught in an electrical engineering bachelor program. The book aims to enhance intuitive and physical understanding of the theoretical concepts it introduces. Accordingly, the book aims to link intuition and common sense to the mathematical models and techniques it uses. It mainly focuses on steady-state analyses and avoids discussions of time-dependent analyses.

The Department of Statistics has organized 45 days certificate course on "Stochastic Processes and Queuing Theory" Certificate course start from 07-08-2017 and this program was conducted by the Department of statistics. For this program me 34 Students were registered. the programme was started at 09.00Am on 07-08-2017 the speaker inviting the principal ,vice principal, the Head, Department of statistics on the Dias, The Principal of the college, in her inaugural speech about the this certificate course and use of it and also congratulated all the students and staff of the statistics Department for organizing this kind of course in the college for the benefit of students after that the head of the department of statistics was addressed about the benefits of the course ,how to use to us in our real life problems ,finally vote of thanks given by the head of department of statistics ,the programme was ended by Janaganamana.

VALEDICTORY REPORT ON ADVANCED PARTIAL DIFFERENTIAL EQUATIONS

The precise idea to study partial differential equations is to interpret physical phenomenon occurring in nature. Most often the system encountered, fails to admit explicit solutions but fortunately qualitative methods were discovered which does provide ample information's about the system without explicitly solving it. In this course we will explore the basic ideas of studying first order equations starting with the inner workings of method of characteristics followed by the three fundamental second order PDEs namely Laplace equation, Heat equation and Wave equation. Ordinary and partial differential equations occur in many apply.

ations. An ordinary differential equation is a special case of a partial differential equation but the behaviour of solutions is quite different in general. It is much more complicated in the case of partial differential equations caused by the fact that the functions for which we are at the functions of more than one independent variable.

The Department of Mathematics has organized 45 days certificate course on "Advanced partial differential equations" Certificate course start from 25-09-2017 and this program was conducted by the Department of Mathematics . DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS

CERTIFICATE COURSE 2018-2019

Valedictory report on "OPERATION RESEARCH METHODS IN NETWORK THEORY"

Operations research attempts to provide those who manage organized systems with an objective and quantitative basis for decision; it is normally carried out by teams of scientists and engineers drawn from a variety of disciplines. Thus, operation research is not a science itself but rather the application of science to the solution of managerial and administrative problems, and it focuses on the performance of organized systems taken as a whole rather than on their parts taken separately. Usually concerned with systems in which human behaviour plays an important part, operations research differs in this respect from systems engineering, which, using a similar approach, tends to concentrate on systems in which human behaviour is not important.

The Department of Statistics has organized 40 days certificate course on "OPERATION RESEARCH METHODS IN NETWORK THEORY" Certificate course started from 15-01-2018 and this program was conducted by the Department of statistics. For this program 32 Students were registered. the programme was started at 10.30Am on 15-01-2018 by inviting the vice principal, the Head, Department of statistics on the Dias. CERTIFICATE COUSEE 2018-2019

" DISCREATE MATHEMATICS "

Objectives:

Discrete mathematics is the backbone of computer science. Main concept of its and notations from discrete mathematics are useful in studying and describing objects and problems in all branches of computer science such as computer algorithm, programming languages, cryptography, automated the oral proving and software development. It is used in formalize statement by using propositional logic, determine the main connective of a formula and obtain its structural tree, compute functions defined by using the structural recursive principle, compute the truth value of a given formula for a given valuation, define model and non-models.

Outcomes:

It is use logical notation, perform logical proofs, apply recursive functions solve recurrence relations, determine equivalent logic expressions, describe useful a standard library functions, create functions, and declare parameters, use graphs and trees.

Syllabus:

1. Sets, Relations and Functions. Mathematical logic, group theory, counting theory.
2. Probability, Mathematical induction and Recurrence relations, graph theory, trees.
3. Formal logic notation, proof methods, induction, well ordering integer congruence asymptotic notation.
4. Growth of functions, permutations, and combinations and counting prines. This elementary introduction to discrete mathematics.

Valedictory report on "STATISTICS APPLICATIONS IN SOCIETY"

Now a days the concept statistics is mostly used to keep records, calculate probabilities, and provide knowledge. Basically, it helps us understand the world a little bit better through numbers and other quantitative information. Thus, the application of statistics is evident in our everyday activities. Statistics are the sets of mathematical equations that we used to analyze the things. It keeps us informed about, what is happening in the world around us. Statistics are important because today we live in the information world and much of this information's are determined mathematically by Statistics Help. It means to be informed correct data and statics concepts are necessary. Have you ever think how do you get that information? There are some computers models build on statistical concepts. These computer models compare prior weather with the current weather and predict future weather. Statistics mostly used by the researcher. They use their statistical skills to collect the relevant data. Otherwise, it results in a loss of money, time and data. What do you understand by insurance? Everybody has some kind of insurance, whether it is medical, home or any other insurance. Based on an individual application some businesses use statistical models to calculate the risk of giving insurance. In financial market also statistic plays a great role.

The Department of Statistics has organized 45 days certificate course on "Statistics applications in nsociety "Certificate course start from 01-06-2019 and this program was conducted by the Department of statistics.
